BANKERS' POOL LENT NAUGHT. Dissolves To-morrow-Sterling Up-Money

Cheapens-Some Gold May Go. The so-called bankers' $50,000,000 pool, the formation of which last month dissipated the state of semi-panic prevailing in the stock market caused by high money rates to go into the money market, in case of emergency, and break high rates for call money. As it turned out, the very fact of its formation prevented an emergency arising, and the pool has never loaned one On the New York Stock Exchange yesterday, call money rates continued to show comparative ease. The firmness of the sterling market revived talk about the possibility of gold exports to Europe. A sterling market revived talk about the possibility of gold exports to Europe. A prominent bank officer said:

"I suppose, if money rates go down, sterling exchange rates will go up, and if exchange rates advance sufficiently some gold will go. The movement, however, will be checked automatically by money will be checked automatically by money and in advancing, and in my opinion.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

THURSDAY, Jan. 8. Continued desire on the part of cautious operators to take profits, a strong market which absorbed the profit-taking sales and manipulation for the rise on a simply gigantic scale in two or three stocks characterized trading on the Stock Exchange to-day. News developments were of comparatively slight importance, but such as did happen were of favorable nature. The local banks have gained $1,556,000 from the Sub-Treasury during the current week, and are also, according to the testimony of bank officers, gainers on their transactions with interior institutions. The Bank of England's discount rate remained unchanged, although the Bank's weekly report of its condition was not an especially good one, and discounts were harder in the open London market. Call money here was offered between 4 and 5 per cent., and time money was obtainable in abundance and for all dates at 11/2 per cent. It will be interesting to observe how long these rates will be maintained without exports of gold. The fact that additional demands for higher wages have been made by employees on many Western railroads does not disturb Wall Street. All these demands in the past have been satisfactorily adjusted and it is well understood that the temper of the management of nearly all the great railroad systems is, for the pres ent, to avoid strikes. The bold and daring operators who are behind the present upward movement in the market disclosed their hand in the afternoon to-day as they have not done at any time previously. The Eric and Rock Island issues were advanced on enormous transactions to prices at one time nearly 4 points above those made at the close yesterday. There was heavy trading in the Reading issues, but these shares did not gain in price. A lengthy publication in a morning newspaper giving details of the supposed transfer of the control of the Reading property to Pennsylvania and Vanderbilt interests jointly had no effect in the stock market as the story merely restated what had been long understood to be, and previously published as, the facts in the case. Officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad have made formal denial that their company was pecuniarily interested in the Reading ompany, but the denial has always been held to be a technical one. So far as any explanation was vouchsafed for to-day's operations in Erie and Rock Island, Wall street had to content itself with the rumor that a prominent director in the Rock Island road was about to enter the Erie directorate, and that the Erie road would receive all the Rock Island's freight business, becoming, in effect, the Eastern end of the Rock Island system. On the heels of this followed another rumor, and ren-dered plausible by the character of the interests now in control of the Rock Island road, that these interests, in a personal or official capacity, had actually acquired a majority of the Eric common shares and proposed to assert their control of the Eric company. The control of the Erie is at present, as is well known that the voting trustees would probably surrender their authority to any one who could demonstrate possession of a majority of the common stock of the road. The story sounds fantastic enough, and would excite little attention were it not for the fact that since the famous grabbing of the Louisville and Nashville road and of the old Rock Island road itself by Wall Street operators, people do not attach as much discredit as formerly to tales of the kind. So far as the movement up and down in the stock market of the present Rock Island shares is concerned, it is a matter of public notoriety, or, if it is not, it ought to be, that these shares are almost wholly in the hands of a coterie of speculators shares at will, and whose sole motive in the current manipulation, indeed, is to so distribute among investors the present Rock Island common and part of the Roc Island preferred shares that the coup by which the old Rock Island road was purchased may be made successful. Entirely apart from these considerations, the danger run by an innocent purchaser in buying shares of stock like these which have advanced nearly 20 points in the market without reaction, as well as the obvious market peril of the entire speculative situa-

Among the other specialties in the market the Sugar shares advanced sharply, be cause of the belief now generally entertained in the Street that capitalists whose names have long been associated with the Standard Oil Company are about to become directors of the American Sugar Refining Company, and, what is more important, that the profits of the Sugar company now warrant a distribution of much larger dividends upon its stock and that a far-reaching plan concerning the practical consolidation of the American Sugar Refining Company and the leading beet sugar refining companies of the country has been wholly matured. It is expected that partial disclosures, at least, of these matters will be made at the approaching annual meeting of the company. Evansville and Terre Haute rose upon a rumor, which is understood to be well founded, rates again advancing, and in my opinion, if gold is exported, the amount will not be that the road has been purchased by the road Company, which the St. Louis and San Francisco road now owns. The United States Steel shares were also naturally strengthened by the news that over 12,000 employees of the company had already announced their desire to participate in the company's new profit-sharing plan. On the other hand, St. Paul common was distinctly heavy during the day, and Amalgamated Copper was weak. It is stated that the pool having in charge the recent manipulation in the Copper shares has closed its operations and distributed the

tion which has thus been created, must
